MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is to address the academic, social-emotional and developmental needs of its students in a safe, supportive and trauma-sensitive learning environment. The school is committed to serving at-risk students, including students in foster care and students receiving prevention services. Through a rigorous program of instruction utilizing a trauma-informed, Sanctuary approach and by providing a wide range of wraparound support services, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will help each student become more resilient, independent and academically successful.

KEY DESIGN ELEMENTS

- 1) A trauma-informed approach to educational and supportive programming through the use of the Sanctuary Model, an evidenced based model that cultivates a trauma sensitive environment in which at-risk youth can maximize their potential to learn, heal and grow. The Sanctuary Model is designed to help organizations address the impacts of trauma. The charter school will use this model to help the charter school establish a safe, supportive and therapeutic environment for students and the staff who work with them. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School expects to enroll a student population comprised largely of children in Foster Care, children receiving Prevention Services (or whose families are receiving Prevention Services) and other at-risk students. Based on the experience of the charter school's partner organization, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, as a provider of foster care, preventive services and early childhood education in the Bronx, along with a considerable body of research from the field, we expect that most of the students enrolled at the charter school will have experienced and/or will currently be experiencing some form of trauma and many will have experienced or be experiencing complex trauma—i.e. exposure to multiple or prolonged traumatic events that impact a child's development. Through a 'whole school' integration of the Sanctuary Model, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will help students overcome the effects of trauma and will address the social-emotional and related barriers that can prevent students from engaging meaningfully in school
- 2) A rigorous CCLS-aligned and data-informed academic program utilizing an integrated set of formal instructional programs and "home grown" teacher-developed curricula drawing heavily on the materials and resources of EngageNY. Teachers and instructional staff will work individually and collaboratively in professional learning communities to analyze a variety of student data, identify desired student results, determine what evidence will demonstrate achievement of desired results and implement appropriate learning experiences and instruction. Data will be collected and assessed by the Principal and all teachers throughout each year to gauge student growth and progress and to tailor instruction to address specific gaps and needs.
- 3) Intensive instruction and extended day programming to ensure that each student's needs are addressed. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to a staffing model and school schedule that promotes personalization of instruction, appropriate remediation and enrichment and effective delivery of supportive services. Each classroom will have at least two instructional staff members—i.e. one classroom in each grade that will have a general education teacher and, a special education teacher and two classes in each grade that will have a general education teacher, a teacher aide and a teaching assistant. This staffing model will, ensure that a low teacher/instructional staff-to-student ratio will exist throughout the school and that special education students will be served in inclusive classroom environments. The school will have an extended-day schedule that provides daily opportunities for remediation, enrichment, tutoring, counseling and other supportive services.
- 4) Comprehensive wraparound services for students to support their healthy growth and development, build their resilience and capacity to cope effectively with challenges in school and life and bolster their academic performance. The founders of the proposed charter school firmly believe that integrating such supportive services into the school's program design will help students address social, emotional, developmental, family and trauma-related issues that can impact their academic performance and success in school. These services and supports will be tailored to address the needs of each student and will be provided by the partner organization, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, at no cost to the charter school. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has extensive experience providing medical, clinical and educational supports to children in a variety of programs, including early education programs and the Hayden House Emergency Residence and School, as well as experience servicing students and families in foster care, preventive services and the child welfare system. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' service model includes extensive clinical assessment services that will inform individualized child health plans and promote a holistic composition of services for the child.

ACADEMIC PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Each student in the charter school program will have an Individual Growth for Success Plan and will be provided with therapeutic assistance and group and/or individual counseling in close collaboration with each classroom's teachers and other instructional staff. This simultaneous commitment to a low teacher/instructional staff-to-student ratio and coordinated, individualized wraparound support services will be an essential context for implementing a rigorous and NYS standards aligned instructional program to support each child's academic and social/emotional development. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will align its K-5 academic program with EngageNY Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) curriculum modules and assessments, and NYS learning standards documents. Sanctuary Model principles and practices will be integrated into the curriculum and students will be taught in safe and supportive classrooms.

School Management

MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE

The charter school's Board of Trustees will govern the school and will be ultimately responsible for the school's academic, operational and fiscal success. The Board of Trustees will select and appoint a Principal who will be the school's overall leader. The Principal will be responsible, under the authority of and with oversight by the Board, for management and oversight of the school's academic, fiscal and operational program. His or her primary responsibility will be to ensure that the school fulfills its mission and vision. The Principal will manage a strong team of professionals, including a Director of Curriculum and Development (and, as the school grows, an additional Director of Curriculum responsible for upper elementary grades), a Director of School Culture, a Director of Operations, a Director of Special Student Services and a Family and Community Relations Coordinator. The Principal, the Director of Curriculum and Instruction and the Director of Special Student Services will share instructional the responsibility or working closely with and supporting the professional growth of the school's teachers and other instructional staff.

ROLE OF CMO OR PARTNER(S)

Cardinal McCloskey Community Services will provide a variety of wraparound support services to children enrolled at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School and their families to help address social-emotional, developmental, mental health-related, family related or trauma-related issues that may be impacting their ability to learn and function in school. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services will also provide advice and services to help the charter school integrate the Sanctuary Model into its programs and culture.

Facility

SCHOOL FACILITY PLANS

The Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's Founding Team requested co-location in a New York City Department of Education school facility. In the event that no suitable facilities for co-location in CSD 10 are available, the charter school will identify and secure a private facility that is appropriate for the school. To this end, the founders of the school are working with Cardinal McCloskey Community Services to explore facilities options in CSD 10.

The Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School board is comprised of the following individuals:

RESPONSE 1

R01ac - Community Need and Proposed School Impact

(a) Community Description and Need

Provide an analysis of the community and target population for the school including:

- A description of the community from which the proposed school intends to draw students;
- Community demographics;
- A description of the specific population of students the proposed school intends to serve;
- The applicant's rationale for selecting the community;
- Performance of local schools in meeting the community's need; and,
- How the proposed school would provide a needed alternative for the community.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will be located in Community School District 10 (CSD 10) in the Bronx. While the demographics of schools in CSD 10 will be discussed later in this section, it is important to acknowledge the dire needs of the Bronx community in which the school will be located. CSD 10 is located within Bronx Community District 7, which is one of the most high-need communities in New York City. Community District 7 is the second most densely populated district in the Bronx (i.e. more than twice the density of the borough as a whole),¹ which has resulted in a variety of conditions that negatively affect the quality of life of community residents. Chief among these conditions is overcrowded schools. In fact, CSD 10 is the most overcrowded district in the Bronx and the 3rd most overcrowded school district in the city.² Overcrowding in the district's schools is only getting worse—i.e. according to the NYC Department of City Planning, “The number of school seats on all levels has not kept pace with the increase in residential development in the community since 2000-01, pushing all schools in the district to operate at over 100% capacity and a handful of schools to operate at nearly 200% capacity.”³ Nine of the district's public grade schools operate annexes, trailers or other additions that are themselves experiencing overcrowding. According to Register of Community Board Budget Requests for Community Board 7 (which includes most of CSD 10), “Currently, 11 out of our 14 grade schools are operating over capacity, with several of these schools severely over capacity.” A 2016 report by the School Construction Authority stated that 5,692 new seats would be needed to fix the overcrowding issue for district schools in CSD 10. Such severe overcrowding in the traditional CSD 10 public schools is clear evidence of a need for new and additional educational options for children and families in the district.

In addition, Community District 7 (which includes most of CSD 10) is economically troubled. According to 2010-2012 American Community Survey 3-Year Estimates, Community District 7's unemployment rate is approximately 10.3% percent, which is higher than the city, state and national averages and fourth-highest amongst all Bronx Community Districts.⁴ Many other residents work in low-wage, temporary and/or part-time jobs and must rely on government benefits to make ends meet. Nearly one-third of the district's residents currently receive SNAP benefits (food subsidy) and nearly half are on Medicaid. Youth unemployment is also a serious community issue. According to Community District 7's Community Board, "A major concern for the community, especially in these troubled economic times, is the lack of employment opportunities for youth and young adults in our community."

Education could readily be the key for reversing these negative economic options. Yet, in Community District 7 and CSD 10, traditional public schools are failing to meet the academic needs of their students. There is a strong need for more high-quality educational options for children, youth and families in the community. CSD 10 is a high-need district that has consistently struggled to meet the needs of its economically distressed and vulnerable student population. The district's student population is predominantly minority and from low-income families—i.e. 68% of students are Latino/Hispanic, 17% are African American/Black and 82% are economically disadvantaged.⁵ As shown in the tables below, traditional public schools in CSD 10 generally underperform significantly for all students and especially for minority students, English Language Learners (ELLs) and Students with Disabilities (SWDs).

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will enroll a student population that is even more vulnerable and at-risk of academic failure than that enrolled in the district's traditional public elementary schools. The charter school intends to focus its outreach and student recruitment efforts each year to enroll the most at-risk students in the community—i.e. students who are in foster care, students who are receiving preventive services and other severely at-risk students. A Foster Care Student is defined as any child in the custody of the City, away from his or her home 24 hours per day in a foster boarding home or a duly-certified relative foster boarding home (kinship home) or a duly-certified group home, agency-operated boarding home, child care institution, or any combination thereof. A Preventive Services Student is defined as any child receiving supportive and rehabilitative services from an agency for the purpose of (1) Averting a disruption of a family which will or could result in the placement of the child in foster care; (2) Enabling a child who has been placed in foster care to return to his or her family at an earlier time than would otherwise be possible; (3) Reducing the likelihood that a child who has been discharged from foster care will return to foster care. Also, children who are living in transitional housing are considered Preventive Services Students. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will address the needs of these students by providing a rigorous academic program in a trauma-sensitive environment that gives students comprehensive wrap-around services and supports. As discussed below, students in foster care or preventive services in CSD 10 are even more in need of effective academic programs and supportive services than students who are not in foster care or receiving preventive services.

There are more than 3,300 students in foster care and more than 2,700 students in preventive care in the Bronx.⁶ Community District 7 currently has 210 school age children in foster care placements. Research shows that children in foster care are severely at-risk of academic failure and of experiencing negative life outcomes as adults. Compared to their peers, foster children have lower scores on standardized tests and higher absenteeism, tardiness, truancy, and dropout rates.⁷ The National Conference of State Legislatures has reported that foster children had "high rates of grade retention; lower scores on standardized tests; and higher absenteeism, tardiness, truancy and dropout rates" when compared to the general population.⁸ The risk of academic failure is even greater for students in foster care who are also in special education, a group that is estimated to comprise 30% to 40% of all children in foster care.⁹ According to researchers writing for the Casey Family Program, "A review of the literature and anecdotal data from the field suggests that the stories of foster children in special education are all too often, stories of unserved or underserved children, lost records, minimal interagency communication, and confusion over the roles of birth parents, foster parents, and social workers."

The experiences of Foster Care Children after ultimately "aging out" of foster care are no less grim. A recent report released by the Public Advocate's office found that roughly 80% of the nearly 1,000 children discharged from foster care each year are left without financial, familial or housing support.¹⁰ As indicated in a 2014 report by the Office of the Public Advocate entitled “Improving the Outcomes for Youth Aging Out of Foster Care in New York City,” these children are more likely to be unemployed, homeless, and incarcerated as adults; are more likely to have drug dependence and post-traumatic stress disorder; and are less likely to have graduated high school or to attend college.”¹¹ While roughly half of young adults in the general population between the ages of 18 and 24 continue to live with their parents¹² and rely on them for material assistance during the transition to adulthood, foster care youth aging out of the system usually do not have this option.¹³ Too old for the child welfare system, but often unprepared to live as independent young adults, foster care youth who age out of care are expected to “make it on their own” long before most of their peers. Nationally, within four years of aging out, 25% experience homelessness, less than half graduate from high school, 42% become parents themselves and more than 80% are unable to support themselves.¹⁴ In addition, persons who have been in foster care are more likely to be convicted of crimes and incarcerated, to succumb to drug and alcohol abuse, or to have poor physical or mental health. Women who have been in foster care experience higher rates of early pregnancy and may be more likely to see their own children placed in foster care. These unfortunate outcomes were documented in a study that reviewed cases of 926 youth who aged out of foster care between 1999 and 2004 and found that few were able to finish vocational or college educations; many wound up in low-paying jobs; more than a third had been arrested for a felony or misdemeanor crime within three years of leaving foster care; a third of females had given birth within that same time frame and that an astonishing 57 percent had been diagnosed with a major mental illness.¹⁵

Children receiving preventive services are similarly at high risk of academic failure. Preventive services are provided to children and their families for the purpose of preventing a child's or children's placement in, or return, to foster care. Preventive services are offered to families where the child or children are under the age of 18 and at risk of foster care placement. Preventive services are designed to help families keep their children safely at home and to help promote safety, permanency and well-being for at-risk children and their families. Families, children and youth who receive preventive services include families with medical and special needs requiring home care, parents and youth who want to stop using drugs or alcohol, children and youth who have been sexually exploited and families with mental health and/or domestic violence concerns. In addition, preventive services provide help to families with either a child with special medical needs, a child and/or parent with a developmental disability, or a child in need of early permanency planning due to a parent's chronic or terminal illness. Each of these characteristics is a risk factor for academic failure.

The common risk factor that negatively impacts children in foster care, children in preventive services and other at-risk children that Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School intends to serve is trauma. Trauma is defined as an emotional or physical reaction to a deeply disturbing event that is witnessed or experienced. Such trauma may relate to a single traumatic event, a series of traumatic events and/or "complex trauma"—i.e. exposure to multiple or prolonged traumatic events that impact a child's development, typically involving the simultaneous or sequential occurrence of child maltreatment that is chronic, begins in early childhood, and occurs within the primary caregiving system.¹⁶ Types and causes of trauma in childhood can include physical abuse, sexual abuse, neglect, domestic violence, natural disasters, medical trauma, auto accidents, community violence, traumatic grief and secondary traumatic stress. A 2002 study of children aged 9 through 16 documented that 25% had experienced at least one potentially traumatic event in their lifetimes and 6% experienced traumatic event in past 3 months.¹⁷ While this statistic indicates that a significant percentage of all children have experienced trauma, research further documents that children in foster care have experienced and/or are currently experiencing trauma at rates that dramatically exceed those for other children. Researchers and service providers have concluded that the great majority of children in foster care have experienced trauma to some form as a result of maltreatment and foster care placement.¹⁸

Trauma experiences for young children can seriously interfere with their ability to appropriately engage in the school routine and the interactive processes of teaching and learning. Such students typically experience high levels of emotional upset, stress and anxiety, which may manifest in disruptive behavior and/or low rates of attendance and participation in the classroom. Students traumatized by exposure to violence (and CSD 10 is a community with high rates of violent crime¹⁹) have been shown to have lower grade point averages, more negative remarks in their cumulative records and more reported absences from school than other students. They may also have increased difficulties concentrating and learning at school and engage in unusually reckless or aggressive behavior.²⁰ Common trauma symptoms for children include avoidance (i.e. dissociation, de-realization, depersonalization and being “in a fog”), re-experiencing (e.g. having flashbacks, nightmares or “daymares”), hypervigilance (i.e. being constantly “on edge” and anticipating danger), lack of trust, depression, anger and/or “acting out.” Research clearly documents that trauma affects school performance (i.e. traumatized students have lower scores on standardized achievement tests, decreases in IQ and achievement in reading and lower rates of retention).²¹ For these reasons, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to providing a trauma-sensitive educational program.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to addressing the academic, social-emotional and developmental needs of children in CSD 10—and especially children who are in foster care, preventive services or otherwise severely at-risk. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School’s Founding Team selected CSD 10 for several reasons including:

- a) The strong ties that Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has with families and residents in the community. The Founding Team is comprised largely of senior representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, the charter school’s partner organization. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services is a 71 year old not-for-profit social service agency that provides a range of non-sectarian programs and services to families and children in New York City and Westchester County, including family foster care, treatment family foster care, health & medical clinical, family day care, child care, family outreach, head start, drop-in center services and programs, along with individual residential alternative group homes, at 21 locations in the Bronx. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Early Childhood Education Division is headquartered in CSD 10 and provides EarlyLearn NYC Family Child Care, site-based and home-based Head Start and Universal Pre-K programs that serve children and families in the district. Many families participating in these programs also received health, dental and medical services from Cardinal McCloskey Community Services. In addition, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services provides parents, caregivers and families of children served by Early Childhood Education programs with opportunities for support and/or involvement, including participation in Policy Councils and other governance/advisory entities and volunteering in classrooms and field trips. As a result, strong bonds have been formed between Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and families in CSD 10. In addition, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has established productive relationships and collaborative programs with other service organizations and educational institutions including the Children's Aid Society, Abraham House, St. Anthony's Free Clinic, Leake and Watts and Fordham University. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will leverage the community goodwill, understanding of community needs and relationships with community organizations developed by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services to serve children and families in CSD 10.

- b) Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' distinguished track record serving children and families in the community. Cardinal McCloskey has been highly effective in serving children and families in CSD 10 and throughout the Bronx. As one of the largest providers of early childhood education programs and child/family support services in the Bronx, Cardinal McCloskey has been successful in addressing the educational and developmental needs of families and children in the community where the charter school will be located. The positive impact of its Early Childhood Education programs, in particular, is a strong indicator that the organization is well-positioned to provide high-quality educational programming to K-5 students in CSD 10. For instance, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Bronx-based Head Start program has been highly-effective in achieving its goal of making all participating children ready for elementary school upon leaving the program. As shown in the table below, students who participated in the program in 2013-14 experienced significant growth in multiple skills needed to be successful in kindergarten, as determined by the results of pre- and post- screenings using the Ages and Stages 3 (ASQ-3) and the Ages and Stages SE (ASQ-SE). The charter school's Founding Team believes that it can leverage the success of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Early Childhood Education programs and its other supportive programs and services in the Bronx to recruit and serve elementary-grade students from the community.

- c) Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' extensive experience with Foster Children Preventive Services Children and other at-risk children in the community. As noted earlier, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School expects to serve a student population comprised largely of children in foster care, children in preventive services and other severely at-risk children. In so doing, it intends to rely heavily on the expertise, services, resources and support of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services provides programming and services each year to more than 2,000 children in its foster care programs. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services also provides a variety of Preventive Services to families with children at risk of foster care placement. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' foster care programs provide comprehensive supports and services to children, adults and families to meet their emotional and physical needs and help them begin a path towards a healthy and productive life. These services include Family Foster Care, Treatment Family Foster Care, the Preparing Youth for Adulthood program (PYA) and Adoption Services. Its Preventive Services programs are designed to keep families together through early interventions that address potential risk factors to children and to strengthen struggling families as they cope with pressures and even tragedies that affect their ability to appropriately care for and protect children. These preventive services include: a) a Family Treatment and Rehabilitation Program, which provides mental health and substance abuse treatment services to vulnerable children and families; b) a Special Medical and Developmental Preventive Services program that supports families with children who have special needs, families with a child and/or parent with a developmental disability and families with a child in need of early permanency planning due to a parent's chronic or terminal illness; and c) the Family Connections Prevention Program, which provides community-based in-home services to families in need. In short, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has worked effectively to address the needs of the city's most vulnerable and at-risk children and families for decades.

The Founding Team of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School recognizes that children and youth in foster care and preventive services face unique challenges that make it difficult for them to succeed in school. These challenges range from abuse and neglect at home and the trauma resulting from removal from their homes to instability in school placements and medical and mental health issues. In helping its students address these challenges and become more successful in school, the school will draw from the experience of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and its programs for helping Foster Care Children, Preventive Care Children and other severely at-risk children succeed in school. Chief among these programs is Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Strategies for Success, an educational advocacy program for children in foster care. Strategies for Success provides comprehensive support to foster care youth modeled on the extensive guidance and individualized attention provided by counselors at elite private schools. The program provides workshops, tutoring and counseling to participating students. It also creates customized educational plans for student with individualized goals and provides targeted services and supports to help students achieve them.²² To date, Strategies for Success has helped more than 265 at-risk youth in the Bronx. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will leverage the experience of its partner organization serving Foster Care children, Preventive Services children and other severely at-risk children in the Bronx to help its students succeed.

- d) The huge need for additional high-quality educational options for children and families in the community. CSD 10 is a highly-troubled school district that lags far behind the state in ELA, math and science proficiency among all students and critical sub-groups of students (e.g, SWDs and ELLs). The consistent failure of traditional public schools in the district is shown in the earlier discussion of and tables reflecting NYS assessment scores. As shown in the table in the Programmatic Impact section, 92% of the district's tested elementary schools (i.e. 34 out of 37 schools) had lower aggregate proficiency rates on the 2015 NYS ELA assessment than elementary schools in NYC and NYS. Similarly, 86% of the district's tested elementary schools (i.e. 32 out of 37 schools) had lower aggregate proficiency rates in math than NYC and 92% (i.e. 34 out of 37 schools) had lower aggregate proficiency rates than NYS. There are also very limited charter school options for parents of elementary school students in CSD 10. Of the seven charter schools in CSD 10, only one is an elementary school—i.e. Bronx Community Charter School. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will provide children and families in CSD 10 with a much-needed educational alternative to the district's low-performing traditional public schools.

(b) Programmatic Impact

Describe the programmatic impact the proposed charter school would have on existing public and nonpublic schools in the same geographic area as the proposed school location.

Responses should include:

- A table listing the existing educational options and grades served available to the target population including all district, charter and private schools in the geographic area;
- Information demonstrating a thorough analysis of existing educational options for the community and target population;
- Analysis of how the proposed school's enrollment plan would impact the enrollment and programmatic viability of the public and non-public schools; and,

Analysis of the provision of novel or different programs or instructional approaches compared to those currently in place in the targeted community.

The total 2014-15 district enrollment in CSD 10 was 53,997. Enrollment in grades K-5 was 26,380. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will open with 150 students in 2017, representing a miniscule 0.3% of the current district enrollment and only 0.6% of the district's K-5 students. At the end of the first charter term, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School, the school will enroll 450 students in grades K-5, which will still only constitute 0.8% of the district's current enrollment and 1.7% of the district's K-5 enrollment. The following table shows that, even at maximum first-term enrollment, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's enrollment will have a negligible impact on the district.

Grade	District	Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School	Charter School as % of District

As in most NYC public school districts, children in CSD 10 are generally sent to a zoned public school based on their address. As illustrated in the table below, most public elementary schools are K-5, although some are K-8 or K-2. As a K-5 school, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will therefore align with local grade configurations. The following table lists all of the traditional public schools and charter public schools serving K-5 students in CSD 10 with the latest aggregate proficiency rates of each school on the 2015 NYS ELA and Math assessments. As noted earlier, the aggregate proficiency rates of the overwhelming majority of these schools trail those of NYC and NYS. In addition, none of the public schools in CSD 10 target students in foster care, students in preventive care or similarly severely at-risk students, nor do they provide comprehensive wrap-around services to ensure that their at-risk students succeed.

In addition, there are 24 private non-public elementary schools in Community District 7 that enroll 7,074 students in grades K-5. In its first year, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will enroll 150 students, which is roughly 2% of the district's K-5 private school enrollment. At the end of its initial charter term, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will enroll 450 students, which is only 6.3% of the district's K-5 private school enrollment. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's enrollment is thus unlikely to have a significant impact on the enrollments of local private schools. In addition, 79% of the private schools in the community (19 of 24 schools) are religiously-affiliated. The founders of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School believe that its secular academic program will not draw many children from families committed to faith-based education. However, as a free public school, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will provide a high-quality educational alternative to families who cannot comfortably afford to enroll their children in private or parochial schools.

The private schools in Community District 7 are:

- 1) Holy Spirit Elementary School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 334 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (211 in grades K-5).
- 2) Miss Francine Day School II, a nonsectarian pre-school/kindergarten program that enrolls 18 kindergarten students.
- 3) Saint Margaret Mary School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 333 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (211 in grades K-5).
- 4) Our Lady of Mercy, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 297 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (181 in grades K-5)
- 5) Grace Lutheran Elementary School, a Lutheran Church-affiliated school that enrolls 259 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (157 in grades K-5)
- 6) Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 284 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (179 in grades K-5)
- 7) Our Lady of Refuge School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 336 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (204 in grades K-5)
- 8) Kinneret Day School, a Jewish school that enrolls 235 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (135 in grades K-5)
- 9) Saint Gabriel Elementary School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 259 students in

- grades pre-K to 8th grade (145 in grades K-5).
- 10) Saint Johns School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 359 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (223 in grades K-5).
 - 11) Visitation School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 252 students in grades K-8 (173 in grades K-5)

 - 13) Regent School, a nonsectarian school that enrolls 194 students in grades K-6 (175 in grades K-5)
 - 14) Saint Ann School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 285 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (184 in grades K-5)
 - 15) Saint Brendan School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 632 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (393 in grades K-5)
 - 16) Saint Lucy School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 622 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (375 in grades K-5)
 - 17) Saint Nicholas of Tolentine Elementary, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 507 students in grades K-8 (361 in grades K-5)
 - 18) Our Lady of Angels School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 473 students in grades K-8 (320 in grades K-5)

 - 21) Horace Mann Lower Division, a nonsectarian school that enrolls 436 students in grades K-5
 - 22) Riverdale Country School, a nonsectarian school that enrolls 1,044 students in grades K-12 (350 in grades K-5)
 - 23) SAR Academy, a Jewish school that enrolls 774 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (473 in grades K-5)
 - 24) Saint Margaret of Cortona School, a Roman Catholic school that enrolls 363 students in grades pre-K to 8th grade (256 in grades K-5)

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is also unlikely to have any significant impact on charter schools in the community. According to the New York Charter School Center's 2015-16 Enrollment Lottery Estimates, 20,681 Bronx residents applied for only 6,606 charter school seats. As noted earlier, only one of the seven charter schools in CSD 10 enrolls students in grades K-5. This school, Bronx Community Charter School, enrolls 352 students and has had a significant waitlist each year of its operation. With such high demand and so little supply for families with elementary school-aged children, the introduction of another charter elementary school will have no adverse impact on enrollment in local charter schools.

As discussed throughout this application, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will provide a Sanctuary Model-infused, trauma-sensitive educational model that is unique in the district. The school also aims to serve an underserved student population—i.e. children in foster care, children in preventive services and other severely at-risk children and youth. There are no other schools in the community that employ the Sanctuary Model or aim to serve significant numbers of foster care children, children in preventive services and/or other severely at-risk children.

(c) Fiscal Impact

Complete the fiscal impact table in the budget template and include a copy of it with this response. Discuss the fiscal impact of the school on other public and non-public schools in the area including:

- Enrollment expectations;
- Per Pupil Allocation assumptions;
- Dollar amount the proposed charter school anticipates receiving from each district in per pupil funding;
- Other projected revenue the proposed charter school anticipates receiving from the district (special education, grant, etc.);
- Projected budget for the school district of location (please note the source and year for this figure); and,
- Yearly projected impact as a percentage of each sending district's budget (for districts projected to send at least 10 students).

DESCRIPTION OF SOURCE FOR PRIMARY DISTRICT'S OPERATING BUDGET:			Total operating budget for NYCDOE is based on published rates from the 15-16 school year which was $21.8 billion.
OTHER NOTES:			Other District Revenue includes Special Education Revenue, Textbook Revenue and 20% additional AOE for Facilities funding.

As is evident from the table above, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will have minimal fiscal impact on NYC public schools. The number of students in the first year of the charter term will be 150 and the financial impact on the NYCDOE will be $3,131,510, or 0.014% of the total NYC DOE budget. In subsequent years, the financial impact remains minimal as the school grows to enroll 450 students. By year 5, the fiscal impact of the charter school on the NYC public schools continues to have a minor impact on the total NYC public school budget drawing on 0.041% of the total budget.

Regarding the impact on non-public schools, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will most likely appeal to families of students whose only current option is to send their children to the neighborhood's public schools. However, for families who may have otherwise chosen to send or are sending their children to low-tuition religious or other private schools, the option is available to instead apply to the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School and, if accepted in the charter school, withdraw their children from those nonpublic schools. This would, of course, reduce enrollment in the nonpublic schools if there should be insufficient applicants to replace their lost students. In such a case, the nonpublic schools would be negatively impacted financially. However, given Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's mission to serve a very high need population as is evidenced by the admissions preference it will give to foster care children (a population which research has shown are highly probable to also be students with special needs, including having significant emotional issues), it is unlikely that the parochial schools in the district would have the capacity to serve them. Further, neither foster parents of these children or social service agencies which provide group homes for these children are likely to have the financial wherewithal or interest in paying for tuition to a nonpublic school for these children. Therefore, public schools would be the only alternative for them. Because of these facts, the vast majority of students served by the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School would not have been those who would have attended nonpublic schools; therefore, the charter school is unlikely to have a negative impact on them financially.

RESPONSE 2

R02ab - Addressing Need

(a) Mission

Provide the mission statement for the proposed charter school.

The mission of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is to address the academic, social-emotional and developmental needs of its students in a safe, supportive and trauma-sensitive learning environment. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to serving at-risk students, including students in foster care and students receiving preventive services. Through a rigorous program of instruction utilizing a trauma-informed, Sanctuary approach and by providing a wide range of wraparound support services, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will help each student become more resilient, independent and academically successful.

(b) Key Design Elements (maximum 5 pages)

Provide a clear and concise overview of the proposed charter school’s key design elements, i.e., those aspects of the school critical to its success. Provide an analysis of any research, evidence of effectiveness or examples of existing programs that support the selection of these elements. This should not exceed five pages in length.

At the core of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School’s model is a commitment to addressing the academic, social-emotional and developmental needs of its students and to reducing the impact that traumatic experiences can have on its students’ learning and development. According to the National Child Traumatic Stress Network, one in four children nationally will experience a traumatic event before the age of 16.¹ Children in urban environments and communities of color such as CSD 10 are especially likely to have experienced one or more traumatic events.² Traumatic experiences can range from one-time events like exposure to a natural disaster or the death or illness of a close relative to long-term adverse conditions such as poverty, long-term exposure to violence and/or being a victim of physical, sexual or emotional abuse. A severe and pervasive form of childhood trauma, known as “complex trauma,” results from exposure to multiple or prolonged traumatic events that impact a child’s development, typically involving the simultaneous or sequential occurrence of child maltreatment that is chronic, begins in early childhood, and occurs within the primary caregiving system.³ Such complex trauma can have devastating effects. A recent study by ProPublica revealed that hospital patients in inner-city communities in Atlanta who experienced complex trauma had rates of post-traumatic stress (PTSD) symptoms comparable to those seen in veterans of the Vietnam, Afghanistan and Iraq wars.⁴

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's student population will be comprised largely of students who are severely at-risk, with a significant enrollment of children in foster care and children who receive preventive services (and/or children in families receiving preventive services). Most of these students are highly likely to have experienced or to be currently experiencing complex trauma⁵ resulting from being in a dysfunctional foster family environment and/or from the foster care experience itself. Data from the National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being indicate that high percentages of the caregivers whose children have entered foster care experience significant stresses in their lives which, in turn, impact the psychological well-being of their children, including active domestic violence, trouble paying for necessities, low social support, high stress in the family, inappropriate discipline, poor parenting skills, serious mental health issues and drug and/or alcohol abuse.⁶ Research also suggests that the very process of foster care may intensify the impact of these traumatic events by further traumatizing young people as they are removed from family, school and community and lose important relationships and bonds.⁷ The founders of the charter school recognize that trauma—and especially complex trauma—impacts children's ability to focus in school and learn and that, for at-risk students, addressing the root causes and impact of trauma plays a crucial role in helping them overcome barriers to learning and succeed.

Accordingly, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School has designed a school model that addresses the needs of severely at-risk children. The key design elements include:

- A trauma-informed Sanctuary approach to educational and supportive programming through the use of the Sanctuary Model, an evidenced based model that cultivates a trauma sensitive environment in which at-risk youth can maximize their potential to learn, heal and grow. Developed by Dr. Sandra Bloom over a period of more than 20 years, the Sanctuary

Model is based on a deep understanding of trauma and how it affects individuals and provides a caring, safe and trauma-sensitive framework for addressing the issues that prevent or hinder student development and growth. The Sanctuary Model is designed to help organizations address the impacts of trauma, and Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will use this model to establish a safe, supportive and therapeutic environment for students and the staff who work with them.. As discussed earlier, children impacted by trauma typically have difficulty focusing in school and are more likely than other students to perform poorly on tests, exhibit unsafe and/or other negative behaviors and lack motivation to achieve. By addressing the impact of trauma on students and creating a trauma-sensitive school environment, families and other school stakeholders, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will help each student build a strong social-emotional foundation that prepares him or her for academic growth. Sanctuary Model principles will be integrated into all aspects of the school's program, including curriculum and instruction, classroom management, school-wide culture and discipline and professional development.

Based on the experience of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services as a provider of foster care, preventive services and early childhood education in the Bronx, along with a considerable body of research from the field, it is expected that most of the students enrolled at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will have experienced and/or will currently be experiencing some form of trauma. It is further expected that many students will have experienced or be experiencing complex trauma—i.e. exposure to multiple or prolonged traumatic events that impact a child's development, typically involving the simultaneous or sequential occurrence of child maltreatment that is chronic, begins in early childhood, and occurs within the primary caregiving system.⁸ The Sanctuary Model recognizes behavioral patterns as learned responses to trauma that must be understood and addressed by dealing with deeper issues of fear, anger, stress, isolation and other manifestations of trauma. The charter school's approach to instruction, school culture, student behavior management and other components of the school program is designed to create a safe and trauma-sensitive environment and will help students overcome the effects of trauma and will address the social-emotional and related barriers that can prevent them from engaging meaningfully in school.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's approach to supporting students' academic and social-emotional growth will reflect a "whole school" integration of the Sanctuary Model. Indeed, the charter school intends to meld Sanctuary into its programming in a way that is more comprehensive than any charter school or district in NYS, if not the nation. The charter school will become certified in the Sanctuary Model during its first charter term through a three-year process that ensures that the model is infused in all aspects of the school's program. The Sanctuary Model will provide a language and structure throughout the school for consistently recognizing and appropriately addressing the trauma that children have experienced in their recent or longer personal histories. Integration of the Sanctuary Model will enable the school to establish and maintain a safe environment in which students can achieve positive behavioral change and growth. Through the use of Sanctuary Model practices such as “Sanctuary Community Meeting” and SELF (Safety, Emotional Management, Loss and Future), the charter school will help each child to articulate his or her needs for safety as the basis for forming a relationship that is secure for them and one that champions learning. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will train all school staff to understand and exercise these and other Sanctuary Model principles and practices in classrooms and throughout the school.

The Sanctuary Model will also provide a shared language and structure across the school for talking about the trauma that children have experienced in their recent or longer personal histories and for supporting them in overcoming the impact of such trauma. The charter school will help each child articulate his or her need for safety as the basis for forming a relationship that is secure for them and one that champions learning. The Sanctuary Model supports the creation of safe environments that promote positive behavioral change in children and their families. The charter school’s comprehensive approach to implementing the Sanctuary Model will support all members of the school community—including teachers and other staff members, parents and other caregivers and students—in exercising Sanctuary Model principles and practices in their work and their lives.

In integrating the Sanctuary Model, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will draw heavily from the experience of its partner organization, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, which established an effective trauma-sensitive educational program at its Article81 school at the Sanctuary Model-certified Hayden House Emergency Residence and School (“Hayden House”) in Ossining, NY. Hayden House provides round-the-clock emergency intervention and NYS standards-aligned academic programming to students in crisis, aged 8 through 18, in a learning environment that has infused the Sanctuary Model in all aspects of its instruction, culture and design. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School’s Trustees, instructional administrators, teachers and other staff members will work closely with staff members of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and Hayden House, including Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ Core Sanctuary Team, to support the effective integration of the Sanctuary Model into the programs and culture of the charter school.

- A rigorous New York Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS)-aligned and data-informed academic program utilizing the EngageNY CCLS curriculum modules and assessments in ELA and Math integrated with formal instructional programs and commercial curricula and assessments. Under the leadership of the Principal and instructional leadership (Director of Curriculum and Instruction, Special Education Coordinator, etc.), Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will align its K-5 academic program with current and evolving EngageNY Common Core Learning Standards (CCLS) curriculum modules and assessments, and NYS learning standards documents. The EngageNY modules, pacing schedules and assessments in both ELA and Mathematics will be adopted for use by teachers and instructional staff to provide effective standards-aligned instruction and support. In Social Studies, the school will use the EngageNY K-12 Social Studies Framework in conjunction with grade-level Social Studies inquiries. Science, Art, Music, Physical Education and Health curricula (along with performance-based assessments in each subject area) will be developed, aligned with NYS Learning Standards and modified as necessary to conform to changes in standards and improve instruction. In Science, the school will use the current NYS Science Standards to govern the development of its curriculum with the understanding that those standards are currently under review in relation to the national grade-level NextGen Science Standards and that curriculum and instruction in Science at the charter school will be adapted as necessary to remain consistent with the evolving Science standards. Similarly, since the NYS Arts standards and assessments are currently being reconsidered by the NYS Board of Regents, curriculum and instruction in Arts education at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will initially be aligned with the current NYS Arts Standards for its four Arts strands (visual, music, dance and theater) but will be modified as necessary as the standards and requirements change.

The process of developing and delivering curricula, lessons and learning experiences that support student achievement aligned with the CCLS in all subjects—and especially in subjects where no NYS syllabi or assessments exist—will use a Backward Design⁹ approach in which teachers and instructional leadership will work individually and collaboratively to analyze student data, identify desired student results, determine what evidence will demonstrate achievement of desired results and design appropriate learning experiences and instruction. Each year, data will be collected for each student including data from NYS assessments, NWEA MAP assessments, curriculum-based CCLS Module assessments in ELA and math and curriculum-based teacher-developed assessments, along with data used to identify and document growth in addressing students’ social-emotional and developmental needs. Teachers and other instructional staff will work together to review and analyze student data, to establish individual student, classroom and grade-level goals, to create strategies for addressing student needs and to measure progress towards achieving goals.

- Rigorous, Targeted instruction and extended day programming to ensure that each student’s needs are addressed. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to an academic program, staffing model and school schedule that promotes personalization of instruction, appropriate remediation and enrichment and effective delivery of supportive services. A key part of the academic program is the establishment of an Individual Growth for Success Plan for each student, based on analysis of a variety of data, that establishes instructional and social-emotional growth objectives and strategies to support the student in achieving them. In addition, each grade will have one Integrated Co-Teaching classroom with two certified teachers—one general education teacher and one special education teacher, as well as a teacher assistant. The other two classrooms in each grade will have one certified general education teacher, one Teacher Assistant and one “shared” certified Special Education teacher who will spend time in each classroom providing push-in and pull-out instruction. This staffing model will ensure that special education students will be served in inclusive classroom environments and all students will benefit from personalized instruction. In addition, the school will have an extended-day schedule that provides daily opportunities for remediation, enrichment, tutoring, counseling and other supportive services, along with time for collaborative planning, curriculum development and mapping, data analysis and professional development for teachers and instructional staff.

- Comprehensive wraparound services for students to support their healthy growth and development, build their resilience and capacity to cope effectively with challenges in school and life and bolster their academic performance.. The founders of the proposed charter school firmly believe that integrating supportive services into the school's program design will help students address social, emotional, developmental, family and trauma-related issues that can impact their academic performance and success in school. These services and supports will be tailored to address the needs of each student and will be provided by the partner organization, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, at no cost to the charter school. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has extensive experience providing medical, clinical and educational supports to children in a variety of programs, including early education programs and the Hayden House Emergency Residence and School, as well as experience serving students and families in foster care, preventive services and the child welfare system. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' service model includes extensive clinical assessment services that will inform individualized child health plans and promote a holistic composition of services for the child. A key reason that Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has been successful in supporting at-risk children and families is that Cardinal McCloskey Community Services provides each child and family with a comprehensive set of supportive services tailored to their needs. Wraparound supportive services will be provided on-site at the school during the extended school day, as well as off-site during out-of-school time at students' homes, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services agency or program sites or the sites of other service providers. Specific services and supports will include: a) intake assessments for all students; b) case management, with Cardinal McCloskey Community Services coordinating the identification and delivery of services and resources to address identified student needs; c) Health Home Care Management for eligible students; d) support for students in foster care undergoing change in placements or other significant changes in their home environments; and e) emergency and crisis medical and clinical support. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services will also assign specialist staff members including at least one psychologist, one mental health counselor and one specialist nurse to provide services and support on-site and remotely to the charter school. A key goal of the wraparound services is to ensure that the supports and structures necessary to address the holistic needs of each child are provided through the charter school's work with Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and other providers, as well as through work with the family to help make sure those needs are met appropriately.

(c) 5% Districts

If the proposed charter school will be located in a district where more than five percent of students are enrolled in charter schools, either provide evidence that the school district of location approves of the establishment of the proposed charter school or explain how the proposed charter school would provide a “significant educational benefit” to its students. A complete list of 5% districts in addition to the New York City School District can be found in the accompanying Guidance Handbook.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School, which will be located in New York City (a 5% District), will have a significant educational benefit to the students and families who live in CSD 10. The proposed charter school is designed to serve the most at-risk children and families in a severely underserved public community school district. Among the benefits that the proposed charter school will provide to CSD 10’s students and families are:

1) Improved educational options for elementary students in the community

As discussed in R1 (a), elementary grade students in CSD 10 are woefully underserved by the district’s traditional public schools. The percentages of 3rd, 4th and 5th grade students in the district’s traditional public schools demonstrating proficiency on NYS ELA and math exams lag far behind those of students in the same grades across the city and the state—in most cases by double digit gaps. Parents of elementary grade students in CSD 10 seeking to “opt-out” of traditional public schools have few options that are both effective and affordable. There is only one charter elementary school in CSD 10 and, as evidenced by its waitlist, there is substantial demand among parents for additional elementary charter school seats. Among private schools, many of the affordable parochial schools are struggling academically and many of the high-performing private schools are prohibitively costly. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will provide parents in CSD 10 with a much needed additional innovative charter elementary school and enable more children in CSD 10 to attend an alternative public elementary school rather than the troubled traditional public elementary schools in the district.

2) A learning environment that personalizes instruction to address the needs of each student

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School is committed to personalizing instruction to address the needs of all of its students, and especially those students who are severely at-risk of academic failure because they are in the foster care system or are receiving preventive services (or are in families receiving preventive services). Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School students will receive more days of instruction than students in most traditional NYC public schools through an extended school day schedule and an extended school-year calendar. Instruction will focus on supporting each student by using strategies and practices aligned with his or her academic needs as determined through analysis of student data. Recent research demonstrates effectiveness of personalized learning strategies, especially for struggling students. Preliminary results of a November 2014 Gates Foundation-sponsored Rand Corporation study looking at the achievement of 5,000 K-12 students attending 23 charter schools over two years documented that the charter schools in which teachers used data to customize instruction and establish personalized learning environments improved their students ELA and math scores considerably more than similar schools using more traditional instructional techniques. Indeed, the greatest gains at the schools using personalized learning were made by the students who were furthest behind academically at the beginning of the study.¹⁰ .By providing an effective standards-aligned personalized learning experience for each student designed to meet his or her needs and modified as needed to address changes in each student’s needs or circumstances, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will provide a significant educational benefit to its students.

3) An educational environment that is safe and sensitive to the needs of at-risk students and their families Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School intends to channel its outreach, marketing and public communication efforts to attract and recruit a diverse student population in which children in foster care, students in families receiving preventive services) and other severely at-risk students will be well represented. To support these students, the charter school will implement several strategies and practices aimed at reducing the impact of traumatic factors in their lives that negatively impact their learning. In designing the school program, the Founding Team relied heavily on the experience of the school’s partner, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, a 71 year-old nonprofit organization with a successful track record responding to the needs of children who have been removed from their homes because of abuse and/or neglect and other at-risk children and families. Over this time, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has seen from experience realized that instilling a sense of physical and emotional safety and support is a critical—and perhaps the most critical—factor in helping at-risk students to overcome the barriers that they are experiencing and focus on learning and improving their lives. Accordingly, the Founding Team has designed the proposed charter to create such an environment of safety and support.

As discussed earlier, the school will integrate Sanctuary Model principles into the school’s academic program and operations to establish a safe, trauma-sensitive learning environment in which even the most severely at-risk students can thrive. In addition, the school’s academic program will draw from the effective data-based strategies and practices of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ Strategies for Success Program, as well as the academic programs and supports used at the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services-operated Hayden House Emergency Residence and School.¹¹ The Strategies for Success Program was established in 2009 to address the educational challenges faced by youngsters in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ foster care programs by providing focused educational guidance, counseling and tutoring services tailored to the special needs and challenges of foster care youth. Each student in the program has an individual educational plan and is provided with guidance, assistance and group and/or individual counseling to help them achieve their individual education plan goals. The Individual Learning Plans and customized tutoring and support strategies that the proposed charter school will implement will be adapted from those used in the Strategies for Success program.

4) A “whole child” approach to education with wraparound services to address social, emotional, developmental, mental health and family-related factors that impede students’ abilities to focus in school and learn

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School, in partnership with Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, will integrate comprehensive wraparound services to help address the social-emotional, health, family-related and developmental factors that often interfere with children’s ability to focus in school and learn. The charter school will work closely with Cardinal McCloskey Community Services to ensure that each student receives appropriate supportive services that are coordinated with the school’s academic program and that address the student’s developmental, social-emotional, behavioral, and family-related or other relevant issues. The wraparound supportive services will be provided on-site at the school during the extended school day, as well as off-site during out-of-school time at students’ homes or at Cardinal McCloskey Community Services agency or program sites. The services will be provided by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and affiliated programs and agencies and will include diagnostic assessments, individual student counseling, group student counseling, health screenings, psychotherapy, tutoring, advocacy, family counseling and other appropriate interventions. The “whole child” approach using wraparound services has proven to be effective in helping students succeed generally, as evidenced by the experience of the Children’s Aid Society of New York City (CAS) which implemented wraparound services in a community school program beginning with two schools in high-need communities in 1992 and growing to 16 schools by 2014. Evaluations conducted by Fordham University showed growth in student reading and math proficiency in the schools receiving wraparound services of 143% to 250% over a three year period. Moreover, a cost-benefit analysis of CAS conducted by The Finance Project showed a strong return on investment for wraparound services with a 10-to-1 return on each dollar invested in the first CAS elementary school and a 15 -to-1 return for the first middle school site. The benefits arose from academic performance, health and wellness improvement, teacher retention, and parent involvement.¹² The Founding Team believes that the charter school’s wraparound services model will provide a significant educational benefit for all students.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School’s wraparound service model will provide a particular educational benefit for the school’s most at-risk students—i.e. students in foster care and preventive services students. Indeed, for this group of students, the coordination of academic programming and services related to social-emotional, behavioral and developmental growth—and communication between teachers and providers of supportive services—is especially likely to have a positive impact on academic achievement and future success. The extensive experience of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services in serving foster care children and families has made quite evident the need for coordination of school and supportive services. Child welfare professionals work diligently to support children in foster care but typically have little or no access to information about what happens during a large and very critical part of these children’s lives—i.e. their school experience. Similarly, K-12 educators often have little to no information about a student’s foster care status, experience and/or needs. The lack of data often makes it difficult, if not impossible, for adults to fully understand and support the academic needs of students in foster care. “In the absence of data, students in foster care tend to become invisible in the education system,” says WestEd Senior Research Associate Vanessa Barrat. “How can we provide effective educational support to these students without knowing who they are or what their academic needs are?”¹³ Indeed, the need for improved communication between teachers to be better informed about the social and emotional needs of students in foster care was underscored by foster care parents during the focus groups held by the Founding Team as part of its community outreach for the charter school. Several of these foster care parents spoke of the emotional pain experienced by their foster children in the district’s traditional public schools because of insensitive remarks or behaviors by their school-day teachers linked directly to their foster care status. The Founding Team firmly believes that, by coordinating K-12 educational programming and wraparound supportive services more closely—and by increasing opportunities for the school’s educators and Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ supportive service professionals to communicate with one another—foster care and other at-risk students at the charter school will be taught in a safe and stigma-free environment. The close collaboration amongst all relevant service providers, in tandem with the educational service delivery, will ensure a continuity of care for the student by providing a shared and contemporaneous awareness of needs, issues, and ultimately progress.

GOAL IV: SOCIAL STUDIES—NA

GOAL V: EVERY STUDENT SUCCEEDS ACT (ESSA)

Goal and Measures: To be established once New York State finalizes and announces its accountability system under ESSA.

GOAL VI: OPTIONAL ACADEMIC GOALS

Goal: Students at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School in all grades will perform at or above grade level in ELA and Math, as measured by performance on NWEA ELA and Math assessments.

Rationale: Because NYS does not administer assessments before 3rd grade, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will use the NWEA MAP for Primary Grades, a nationally-normed assessment, to evaluate student performance in ELA and Math at grades K-2. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will also use the nationally-normed NWEA MAP as an additional measure of student performance in ELA and Math at grades 3-5 (and grades 3-8 in the first renewal charter term).

Absolute Measures

- Each year, 75% of all tested students who are enrolled in Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School in at least their second year will perform at or above grade level (NCE=50) on the Spring administration of the NWEA MAP for Primary Grades and NWEA MAP Reading tests.
- Each year, 75% of all tested students who are enrolled in Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School in at least their second year will perform at or above grade level (NCE=50) on the Spring administration of the NWEA MAP for Primary Grades and NWEA MAP Math tests.

Goal: Students at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will demonstrate consistent growth in ELA and Math each year as measured by pre- and post- test performance on the NWEA Measures of Academic Progress assessments.

Rationale: Because NYS does not administer assessments before 3rd grade, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will use the NWEA MAP for Primary Grades, a nationally-normed assessment, to evaluate student growth in ELA and Math at grades K-2. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will also use the nationally-normed NWEA MAP as an additional measure of student growth in ELA and Math at grades 3-5 (and grades 3-8 in the first renewal charter term).

Growth Measures

- Each year, grade-level cohorts of students will reduce by one-half, the gap between the percent at grade level on the previous Spring administration of the NWEA Reading test and 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the current Spring. If a grade-level cohort exceeds 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the previous year, the cohort will remain above 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the current year.
- Each year, grade-level cohorts of students will reduce by one-half, the gap between the percent at grade level on the previous Spring administration of the NWEA Math test and 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the current Spring. If a grade-level cohort exceeds 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the previous year, the cohort will remain above 75% at or above grade level (NCE=50) in the current year.

Goal: The performance of students in foster care and preventive services enrolled at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School on NYS assessments in ELA, Math and Science will exceed that of students in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' foster care and preventive care programs (and other students in NYC foster care and preventive services programs for whom NYS assessment data is available) each year.

Rationale: Children in foster care and preventive services programs are severely at-risk of academic failure and historically have had lower scores on standardized tests than their peers who are not in foster care or preventive services.² Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's academic program and school model are designed to support students in foster care and preventive services in achieving grade-level proficiency in ELA, Math, Science and other subjects. A key measure of success will be how well Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's foster care/preventive services students perform on NYS assessments as compared to other students in foster care and preventive services in NYC. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services will collect NYS assessment data each year for all children in its foster care and preventive services programs and will work with other foster care and preventive services programs in NYC to collect NYS assessment data for children in their respective programs. The performance of students in foster care and preventive services enrolled at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School on NYS assessments will be compared to that of students in foster care and preventive services not enrolled at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School.

Comparative Measures

- Each year, the percent of all tested students in foster care who are enrolled in at least their second year and performing at proficiency on the state ELA exam will be greater than that of students in foster care in the same tested grades in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' foster care programs and other foster care programs in New York City (for which NYS assessment data is available).
- Each year, the percent of all tested students in preventive services who are enrolled in at least their second year and performing at proficiency on the state ELA exam will be greater than that of students in preventive services in the same tested grades in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' preventive services programs and other preventive services programs in New York City (for which NYS assessment data is available).
- Each year, the percent of all tested students in foster care who are enrolled in at least their second year and performing at proficiency on the state Math exam will be greater than that of students in foster care in the same tested grades in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' foster care programs and other foster care and preventive services programs in New York City (for which NYS assessment data is available)..

Describe how the applicant team formed and the relationship of its members to each other. Clearly describe the process that the founding group used to develop the proposal. Discuss any assistance the founding group received from outside advisors, for example, support organizations or consultants (even if these outside advisors are not active members of the founding group). Use the Founding Team Members table to list the active members of the founding group who developed this proposal and/or will be involved in the proposed school, if approved.

The Founding Team is comprised primarily of leadership and staff members of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, a 71-year old community services organization that has provided a range of services to vulnerable children and families. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has a long and successful track record responding to the needs of children who have been removed from their homes because of abuse and/or neglect and other at-risk children and families. Over this time, the leadership and staff of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services has realized that instilling a sense of physical and emotional safety and support is a critical—and perhaps the most critical—factor in helping at-risk students to overcome the barriers that they are experiencing and focus on learning and improving their lives. From this understanding, discussions grew of building a school to serve the most at-risk children in our society, including children in Foster Care, children in Preventive Services, children whose families are in Preventive Services and other severely at-risk youth.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Services began planning the development of a charter school roughly three years ago as an extension of its mission to support the education, health and development of at-risk children and their families. As part of this planning process, representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services visited charter schools and met with charter school leaders throughout New York City. Representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services also met with senior members of SUNY’s Charter Schools Institute to explore its options in developing a charter school. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services formed a Charter School Planning Committee that worked tirelessly over several months to design a blueprint for a charter school. In addition, several sub-committees and workgroups were developed to support the development of the charter school. Throughout this application, the term “Founding Team” refers to the members of the primary Planning Committee and the members of the proposed charter school Board. Among the committees and workgroups that helped to develop the proposed charter school are:

- 1) The Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Charter School Committee, which ensures that the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Board of Directors is kept aware of developments regarding the proposed charter school and is provided opportunities for input in its design and governance structure. This Committee was primarily responsible for the development of the charter application, including coordination of other committees, communication with the proposed Board and overseeing the work of consultants and advisors. The Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Charter School Committee also ensures effective coordination of activities and services provided to the charter school by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services. Membership of the Board Workgroup includes the Chair of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ Board, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ President and CEO, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services’ Chief Operating Officer, Chair of the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Development Committee, a liaison to the Early Childhood Education Division and several Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Directors and several other Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Board members.
- 2) The Academic Program Committee, which meets frequently to design, support and refine the charter school’s academic program. Committee members include the Administrative Director and Executive School Administrator of the Hayden House Emergency Residence and School, the Senior Vice President of the Early Childhood Education Division, the Senior Vice President of Children's Services, the Deputy Director of Special Education and Pre-K for All and the Education Supervisor at Cardinal McCloskey Community Services. The Academic Program Committee has been advised by Dr. Lillis and several educational consultants.

- 3) The Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Staff Ambassadors, who are charged with the responsibility of communicating with and soliciting input from staff and constituents of all Cardinal McCloskey Community Services agencies and programs to benefit from the expertise of a wide range of staff, to facilitate outreach to the community (and especially at-risk families and other members of the community that the school wants to include in its outreach and recruitment) and to ensure that the school design addresses actual and verified community needs. Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Staff Ambassadors meet regularly with one another and have conducted numerous community outreach events. The purpose of these events has been to build public awareness about the proposed charter school, to gauge and document community support and to solicit community input in the design of the school. The Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Staff Ambassadors include senior representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' medical/clinical programs, the Senior Vice President of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Children's Services, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services finance staff, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Education supervisors, the Director and representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Head Start and UPK programs, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Deputy Director of Family and Community Partnerships, a Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Residential Coordinator, a Prevention Services supervisor and several consultants.
- 4) The Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Parent Ambassadors, which is a group of highly-engaged guardians of children served by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services programs who network with other guardians and families in the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services community to "spread the word," about the charter school throughout the CSD 10 community, to solicit community input and to build a foundation of support among guardians and families of children who may enroll in the charter school. The Parent Ambassadors are led by representatives of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Head Start programs and include guardians of children enrolled in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services programs.
- 5) The Facility Committee, which is led by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Deputy Director of Operations and includes Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Chief Operating Officer, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Senior Vice President of the Early Childhood Education Division/Charter School Applicant and Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' Chief Financial Officer. The role of the Facility Committee is to research and pursue private facility options in the event that suitable New York City Department of Education (NYCDOE) space for colocation is unavailable.

- 6) The Finance Committee, which is led by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Chief Financial Officer and includes the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Director of Government Grants, the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Chief Operating Officer and the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Senior Vice President of the Early Childhood Education Division,. The role of the Finance Committee is to develop and provide initial approval of the charter school budget, advise regarding financial management and systems for the charter school and explore options for external funding including private and government grants.
- 7) The Human Resources/Recruitment Committee (currently being established), which will help design and guide the charter school in establishing an effective human capital management system

In addition to the above-listed CMCS-associated members, the Planning Committee was also advised and supported by experts in education and charter development, including:

1) Anne Lillis, Ed.D. Dean and Faculty Member of the Monroe College School of Education in New Rochelle NY—.As Dean, Dr. Lillis has focused on building a school of distinction marked by successful teachers who make a positive difference in their communities. Prior to her tenure at Monroe College, Dr. Lillis worked in pre k-12 public education in NYS as a teacher and school administrator, and served as the Assistant Superintendent of Pupil Personnel Services for the White Plains City Schools. Dr. Lillis has focused much of her career on working with diverse communities, in urban/suburban settings, developing and supporting innovative and successful programs for struggling learners, as well as Students with Disabilities and English Language Learners. Dr. Lillis received her doctorate in Educational Leadership from Teachers College, Columbia University.

(e) Community Outreach

Please Note: Community outreach is a minimum statutory requirement. For further information about this requirement, refer to the Guidance Handbook.

Explain:

- The methods used to inform stakeholders in the intended community about the proposed charter school;
- The strategies used to solicit community input regarding the educational and programmatic needs of students and the plan to meet those needs;
- The form and nature of feedback received from community stakeholders and the process for incorporating that feedback into the submitted proposal; and,
- The extent to which, if at all, the proposal incorporates community input regarding the educational and programmatic needs of students.

Under the direction of the Charter School Founding Team, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School has established a multi-tiered community outreach campaign designed to build awareness about the proposed charter school throughout CSD 10—and especially among caregivers, organizations and agencies serving children in foster care or preventive services. Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School has also solicited comments, questions and input from parents and the community regarding the development of the charter school. Community input was considered on a deliberate and ongoing basis by the Charter School Founding Team and the appropriate sub-committees and workgroups. As discussed later, elements of the school design and community communications strategy were reconsidered and/or modified based on community input.

Community outreach for the proposed charter school began more than a year ago with a comprehensive campaign to inform parents, community leaders and others about the charter school and to solicit their support. Under the direction of Applicant Dr. Reva Gershen-Lowy, the Founding Team developed a comprehensive Community Outreach Plan on January 3, 2016. The Plan outlined the school's community outreach strategy and listed specific tasks, target dates and assignments of roles and responsibilities. The plan was created collaboratively with input from representatives of several divisions, agencies and programs of partner organization Cardinal McCloskey Community Services. The Community Outreach Plan was updated several times to reflect new information and contacts, increase the reach of the outreach campaign and to respond to feedback received from parents and civic and community leaders and others during earlier outreach activities. Updates were made in December 2016 and in January, February and March 2017. The most recent Community Outreach Plan is included in R-03j Outreach Evidence and includes a record of community outreach activities conducted to date since September 2016 and planned several outreach activities that will occur in late March and April 2017. An earlier Community Outreach Plan is also included to document outreach efforts made during the Winter and Spring of 2016

In developing and implementing the school's community outreach initiatives, the Founding Team has leveraged the experience, resources, relationships and community goodwill of partner organization Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, a 71-year old nonprofit organization that serves at-risk children and families in CSD 10 and throughout New York City and Westchester County. The agency has developed and adapted its programs in response to community needs and feedback, and extensive community outreach has always been a critical part of its programming. The decision by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and the Founding Team to design and seek approval to operate a charter school was based largely on Cardinal McCloskey Community Services' long history of providing care for the intended beneficiaries of the proposed charter school. In a system-wide strategic planning process undertaken by Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, the organization considered feedback from a broad range of organizational and community stakeholders and determined that establishing a charter school with rigorous Sanctuary Model-infused academic programming and comprehensive wraparound supportive services would be the best and most appropriate way to further address the needs of at-risk children and families. The design of the proposed charter school reflects the experience of Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and the feedback it has received from its constituents.

The Founding Team's community outreach and communication initiatives have included:

Informational meetings and dialogues with parents and other community members: Representatives of the Founding Team and other representatives of CMCS held multiple informational meetings and "q&a" sessions to inform parents and community members about the charter school, to solicit input from them about their concerns about and interest in the charter school and to provide opportunities to indicate their support. Most of these meetings were aimed at parents and caregivers of children in foster care and other at-risk children in CSD 10, including parents and caregivers in Cardinal McCloskey Community Services foster care and head start programs. During these meetings, participants were informed about the proposed charter school and provided with opportunities to ask questions and to make comments. The aim of these meetings was to share information and promote two-way dialogue about the needs of children in the community and how the proposed charter school can best address them. At these meetings, members of the Founding Team also distributed English-language and Spanish-language informational materials, hard copy surveys and a petition of support for attendees to sign. Participants were also encouraged to provide feedback, voice any concerns and make suggestions either at the meeting or on the school website or Facebook page. Following each meeting, members of the Founding Team convened to discuss the feedback received during the meeting and to consider modifications in the school's program and/or community communication strategies. Among the meetings held during the last six months were:

- A meeting with the Cardinal McCloskey Head Start Policy Council in December 2016. The Head Start Policy Council is a volunteer advisory group comprised of parents of children in the organization's Head Start programs.
- A community meeting at Monsignor Boyle Head Start in January 2017.

- A community meeting at Sacred Heart Head Start in January 2017.
- A community meeting at Tolentine Head Start in February 2017
- Nine meetings foster care family focus groups in February 2017
- Five Head Start Parent Meetings at Head Start programs in the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services network.

Additional meetings have been scheduled at Monsignor Boyle Head Start and Sacred Heart Head Start in May 2017. In addition, Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School will have a prominent information booth and presentation opportunity at the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Community Outreach Fair, a major community event on March 30, 2017 that will enable representatives of the Charter School Founding Team and Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Parent Ambassadors to share information about the charter school with and solicit feedback from parents and community members from across CSD 10.

The meetings have been a very effective vehicle for engaging in dialogue with and soliciting feedback from parents, caregivers and community members. Founding Team members who facilitated these meetings have observed that participants at the community meetings in December 2016 and January and February 2017 were more knowledgeable about charter schools in general and Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School in particular, than participants in the community meetings held in early 2016. They also observed that participants in the later meetings were more likely to voice their opinions than participants in the early 2016 meetings. This was evidenced by the questions that were asked and the feedback that was provided during the meeting. For instance, some questions raised by community event participants in the January meetings concerned the charter school's programs and accountability goals and how they would differ from those of the district schools, whereas questions from participants of the early 2016 meetings were more general. Many parents and caregivers who participated in the later meetings asked questions that were specific to the needs of their children. For instance, several parents of children in foster care expressed concern that their children's unique needs were not being addressed in the traditional public schools in which they were enrolled and wanted to know how the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School would provide a more supportive learning environment and better educational experience for their children. The changes in the questions and feedback over time indicates that the cumulative effect of the community meetings and other charter school' outreach initiatives over the last year has helped to increase awareness about charter schools and the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's proposed academic model among parents and community members in CSD 10. As a result of these questions and feedback, the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School Founding Team was able to review the proposed academic program to ensure that it addresses the need and concerns expressed by meeting participants. The Founding Team also refined its informational materials, presentations and website to better communicate about how the proposed charter school will serve at-risk children in CSD 10.

Advertisements in print and other media: Advertisements were placed in various newspapers in the Bronx to promote open house and community meetings and to share information about the charter school. Specifically, newspaper advertisements were placed in El Diario (a Spanish language newspaper), the Bronx News, the Norwood News and Caribbean Life. The school has placed in advertisement in the Charter School edition of a community Bangali language newspaper. In April 2017, members of the Founding Team will discuss the proposed charter school in interviews on New York 12 Bronx, NY 1 and BronxNet Cablevision.

Outreach to Community Boards, Businesses and Community-based Organizations: Members of the Founding Team made presentations to Community Board 7 in February and May 2016 and in February 2017. At the February 2017 meeting, the Founding Team members updated the Community Board about the progress that has been made since the last presentation regarding the design of the school and the development of the charter application. Outreach was also aimed at community-based organizations and businesses in CSD 10. In early 2016, members of the Charter School Founding Team and other CMCS representatives created a list with contact information of 75 community-based organizations and businesses to which CMCS representatives—and particularly the CMCS Ambassadors (i.e. select program staff volunteering as part of the outreach efforts)—would reach out to inform them about the charter school and solicit their support and feedback. As part of a “Boots on the Ground” outreach effort, each Ambassador selected at least five organizations or businesses from the list that he or she would visit personally and/or contact. Among the persons engaged in this effort are parents of children participating in or receiving CMCS services and employees of CMCS and its affiliated organizations, agencies and programs. The Ambassadors were provided a brief “elevator pitch,” along with informational materials, to support them in talking about the school. Ambassadors distributed fliers and other informational materials, encouraged people to visit the school website, collected signatures on the school’s petition of support and asked people to complete surveys. The Ambassadors also solicited feedback during their visits and reported back to the Charter School Planning Team and/or the appropriate sub-committees. To date, more than 50 community-based organizations and businesses have met with or been contacted by Ambassadors. The Ambassador Outreach initiative was expanded in January 2017. In addition to following up regarding contacts made in 2016, each Ambassador was tasked with identifying and contacting at least three new contacts.

The organizations and agencies that have engaged in dialogue with Founding Team members or Parent Ambassadors includes Theracare, the FCC Parent Advisory Committee, the Parents in Case Management Program, the NYC Administration for Children’s Services, St Anthony’s Parish, Collaborative for Children and Families, JCCA, the Sanctuary Institute, the Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Head Start Policy Council, the Ackerman Institutes and the NYS Office of Children and Family Services.

Outreach to elected officials: In early 2016 representatives of CMCS reached out to elected officials in CSD 10 and the Bronx via e-mail and telephone and met personally with several, including Senator Gustavo Rivera and Senator Ruben Diaz, Sr. (each of whom provided the school with a Letter of Support), Monica Major, Director of Education and Youth Services for Bronx President Ruben Diaz, Jr., Councilperson Fernando Cabrera and Councilperson Andrew King. The purpose of this outreach was to inform them about the proposed charter school and secure their support, their guidance and their assistance in building awareness about the school among their constituents. Follow-up outreach to these elected officials has occurred during the last three months, including e-mail outreach to nine members of the Assembly, seven members of the City Council and 10 members of the State Senate. Each of these elected officials was then sent a letter with an information packet with materials outlining the school's goal to assist at-risk children and stressing the importance of gaining their input and feedback. Several then received telephone call to schedule meetings and request their support, including Senator Rivera, Councilman Cabrera, Assemblyperson Carmen E. Arroyo, Assemblyperson Marcos A. Crespo, Senator Ruben Diaz Sr. and Bronx Borough President Ruben Diaz, Jr. In addition, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services and Founding Team organized two "Legislative Calling Days" in March 2017 in which Cardinal McCloskey Community Services Parent Ambassadors have called their elected officials as constituents to express their enthusiasm about the charter school and to ask for their support.

Outreach and Visits to Educational Organizations and Charter Schools: Founding Team members also engaged in dialogue with the leadership of Monroe College and Fordham University. Additional outreach and solicitation of feedback included site visits to charter schools in NYC and meetings with school leaders and educators at these schools. Efforts were made to identify charter schools that serve student populations similar to that expected at Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School. The primary reasons for these visits and meetings was to seek feedback from practitioners regarding the proposed model and strategies of Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School and to gather information about their experiences, successes, challenges and expectations to guide the Founding Team in designing the school. Members of the Founding Team visited and met with representatives of the following charter schools: a) the NYC Center for Autism Charter School (January 6, 2016), Broome Street Academy Charter School (January 22, 2016), the Children's Aid College Prep Charter School (February 23, 2016), the Bronx Charter School for Children (February 23, 2016) and Hellenic Classical Charter School (September 16, 2016). An additional meeting with the leadership of the NYC Center for Autism Charter School was held on February 25, 2017 to discuss ways in which the NYC Center for Autism Charter School can collaborate with Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School to provide professional development to teachers and strengthen programs for students with disabilities.

Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School's community outreach initiatives have resulted in evidence of community interest and support, including:

- 1,121 visitors and 3,173 page visits to the proposed charter school's website
- 570 people completed the proposed charter school questionnaire expressing their support
- 802 people signed the proposed charter school's petition of support
- 25 letters of support from community leaders, elected officials, educators, parents and other caregivers and others

 - Describe any changes made to the application following the withdrawal or denial of the application evident in this proposal.

An application was submitted to the SUNY Charter Schools Institute during the 2016 application cycle and was withdrawn to respond to concerns raised prior to its capacity interview. In consideration of comments received from representatives of SUNY, including comments in its justification letter (which is attached), several changes were made in the design and description of the proposed charter school, including:

- Greater infusion of the Sanctuary Model in the school's programs, operations and culture and more detailed description of how the Sanctuary Model is integrated into the life of the school.
- A more robust and comprehensive system of assessments and a more comprehensive curriculum and instructional program
- A more comprehensive description of the background and experience of the partner organization, Cardinal McCloskey Community Services, including its experience managing an Article 81 school at the Hayden House Emergency Residence and School.
- A restructuring and comprehensive revision of the school's optional Accountability Goals to better align with the trauma-sensitive Sanctuary Model-focused approach of the charter school.

- An expansion of the school's programs for English language learners

Re: Proposal to Establish the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School

Dear Dr. Gershen-Lowy:

Thank you for the significant time and effort that you and your planning team devoted to the proposal to establish the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School. The SUNY Charter Schools Institute (the "Institute") recognizes that this is a challenging endeavor and commends you for the work that you and your team put into developing the proposal.

As you know, after an in-depth review by Institute staff and several external consultants, the Institute determined that the proposal was significantly under-developed, preventing us from moving it forward in our review process. Further detail regarding the rationale for the Institute's decision follows.

The Institute's intent in providing this information is to communicate some, but not all, of its concerns generated during the review process. Ongoing experience approving, monitoring, and ultimately evaluating schools for charter renewal continues to inform our understanding of what it takes to open and run a successful charter school. This experience provides an increasingly critical lens through which we evaluate new proposals. While the school design and content of your proposal is ultimately up to you, it still must meet SUNY standards and demonstrate a strong likelihood of achieving a high level of student performance such that the school is likely to earn renewal at the expiration of the charter term.

The Institute found the idea of a charter school focused on serving your population of students quite interesting. Our review identified areas of the proposal that required additional design, information, as noted below. The following list is not exhaustive, but captures examples of some of the most pertinent shortcomings identified during the review process. Generally, the proposal lacked detail and specificity related to the proposed school's academic and social-emotional programming. Proposals with specific and well constructed details in the areas identified below are important in that they provide the much needed roadmap that successful SUNY authorized schools use to build strong schools. Should you choose to submit a new application at a later time, you should not assume that modifying only the discreet elements referenced in this letter would remedy the proposal as a whole.

School Model and Academic Program

- The applicants included several optional goals within their draft Accountability Plan response that would be impossible or impractical to monitor, because comparative data for subgroups such as students in foster care are not easily or readily available. If you have access to data the Institute is unaware of, providing a clear description of that data, the access opportunities and methods of verification would have strengthened the goals presented.
- Beyond stating plans to utilize the EngageNY modules as the basis for curriculum, the proposal did not specify how school leaders and teachers would customize these materials to meet the specific needs of students at the proposed school. The narrative lacked depth in discussing the methods for adjusting and evaluating curricula to serve the needs of the proposed school's student body. Reviewers sought more concrete plans for annual revision processes, and also questioned how the applicants plan to utilize demographic data to inform such decisions.
- Given the proposed school's focus on the trauma-informed Sanctuary model, the proposal lacked detail as to the specific components of this approach that would address the severe needs of the students the applicant proposes to serve. Further, the proposal contained minimal detail as to how Sanctuary principles would be integrated and aligned to curriculum materials and objectives. It was also unclear how much training is required for a school leader to become proficient in the Sanctuary model, how knowledge and experience with the Sanctuary model impacts the search for a school leader, what supports that school leader would have available to grow or strengthen facility with Sanctuary, or how the approach would be implemented with fidelity if only two staff members are fully trained by the end of the first charter term.
- The applicant did not identify the process used to select the assessment suite presented, or for evaluating the assessments' validity and reliability. Additionally, reviewers expressed concern that the variety of assessment tools was not robust enough to provide regular, timely performance information to enable teachers to adjust instructional materials.
- The proposal did not contain sufficient plans to implement a high quality program to support the language acquisition needs of English language learners. This is an important component in all proposals that are successful in SUNY's charter granting process.
- The proposal outlined the social-emotional impact and limitations of a traditional promotional policy but it failed to identify a substantive alternative that the school would implement.
- Though Cardinal McCloskey Community Services currently operates a school in Ossining, New York, the proposal did not provide any information about the success of this program or describe how lessons learned informed the proposed school design, either in the proposal or accompanying business plan.

Fiscal

- Reviewers questioned the budget's adequacy, particularly given the omission of key staff positions in early years such as a director of student services and enough social workers to meet the intense needs of the target population. The budget also projected a high net income in year five, rather than redirecting this surplus into the proposed school's programs.

The Institute truly recognizes and appreciates the effort that went into the development of the proposal to establish the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School and we hope that this information provides you with a better understanding of SUNY's requirements and expectations. If you have any questions regarding the review process, please do not hesitate to contact Heather Wendling, Director for New Charters, at (518) 445-4250.

Sincerely,

Please indicate how you would handle a situation in which you believe one or more members of the education corporation's board are involved in self-dealing (working for their own benefit, or the benefit of their friends and family). Please note that simply confronting the involved trustee is not usually a sufficient answer.

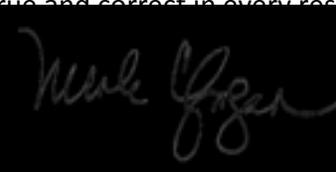

If I became aware of self-dealing among board members, I would immediately launch an investigation to determine facts by an independent entity. Following a conclusion of such investigation, if found to be inappropriate, I would quickly move to convene the Board to remove the implicated individuals, sever any financial relationships that came under scrutiny, and if required notify state educational authorities about the issue and remediation plan.

Have any of your children attended a local public school, ages kindergarten and above? Yes/No? _____

Are you familiar with any local Charter Schools? Yes/No? _____

Have your children ever attended a Charter School? Yes/No? _____

If yes, what is the name of the school? _____

Do you have any opinions about Charter Schools, and if so what are they?

1. will the kids be bussed

Have you heard of any plans about the proposed Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School? Yes/No? _____

Would you want your child to attend the Cardinal McCloskey Community Charter School and why?

Because at school (Head Start) my son has gained so much knowledge and he also is aware of his behavior. a charter school would be an excellent idea to polish him off.
him

Do you feel a Charter School that offers additional support services (such as clinical and medical) would help children succeed educationally, emotionally and socially and if so, why?

absolutely. Kids do get hurt and sick so to have someone on site that can handle these type of situations are a plus and I will feel much more comfortable to have my child in this Charter school.

Do you feel that these services are lacking for at risk children, or are too difficult to access? And if so, why?

definitely not lacking, its more of a asset.

Do you see a need for a Charter School in your neighborhood and why?

absolutely, we have public schools, high schools + colleges in our neighborhood so why not a Charter school

What suggestions do you have for a Charter School?

1. Uniform
2. long hours including ~~the~~ tutoring (after school)
3. Bilingual - Spanish + English
